History

Frontier Airlines was originally founded in 1950 but was later rebranded into its current form in 1994. The airline quickly expanded its presence, focusing on a low-cost carrier model that emphasizes affordability and efficiency. Frontier established a strong foothold in major airports, including DFW, as part of its expansion strategy to serve budget-conscious travelers. Over the years, the airline transitioned to an ultra-low-cost business model, offering a base fare with optional add-ons, allowing customers to pay for only what they need. Frontier's presence at DFW has grown steadily, providing more nonstop flights to popular destinations. Today, it remains a key player in the low-cost airline sector, offering affordable travel options while maintaining operational efficiency.
